

I am a hearing person, however my wife is deaf. The VRS (Video Relay Service) is now a very important mode of communicating for her. VRS allows the deaf to use their language, sign language to communicate with the hearing population and deaf population.

Hopefully, the FCC will fund the VRS at a level that gives the deaf the communication access they need and should have. Please do not cut funding to this service for the deaf. Our deaf population has lived all their lives under restricted communications, please keep funding the VRS that allow the deaf access to this wonderful communications technology.
